

Premium Back-End and API Software Services

For demanding clients and challenging projects

DevsData LLC is a boutique software & Big Data agency, with Google-level engineers and a vast network of senior expert contractors. We are all about premium quality and business understanding.

Experienced with payment APIs and financial systems

We have delivered projects for hedge funds, involving sensitive financial data and real-time systems with GDPR-restricted information that integrated with numerous payment processors and banks, genuinely caring about security and paying attention to details.

Only A-players Google-level engineers

We work only with highly qualified experts in the field of Back-End development, API and data processing. Our engineers have work history from a finance sector (Morgan Stanley, HSBC, Credit Suisse), an extensive experience with payment integration, especially with complex back-end related work, and with processing of highly-sensitive financial or confidential data. Some are MENSA members and local tech meetup speakers.

"In my career, I've worked on integrating numerous payment gateways as well as connecting with APIs of banking institutions. I've created solutions allowing users to choose any payment provider and then collect fees from the payments safely and reliably. My work was tested on high load publicly available applications."

Luke Bartoszek, Software Tech Lead at DevsData LLC

Serious about security

Some of our projects involved restricted data, for instance, data issued by the US government agencies containing SSNs and personal information of the US citizens as well as businesses.

// Best back-end engineers I've ever worked with..

"I interviewed about a dozen different firms. DevsData LLC is truly exceptional – their backend developers are some of the best I've ever worked with. I've worked with a lot of very well-qualified developers, locally in San Francisco, and remotely, so that is not a compliment I offer lightly. I appreciate their depth of knowledge and their ability to get things done quickly."
